How Bankers make you poor. The public is denying its own personal interests by allowing a small group of people manipulate our understanding of the way economies and societies work for the best interests of everyone as a whole. Its not too technical to grasp. In fact its simple. The accumulation of debt rises faster than the production of an economy can maintain. Thus, the unproductive part of an economy, the rentier class soaks up the working classes income causing debt deflation. Stagnation. Lack of thriving as what a parasite does to its host organism.

That is where our economy is and has been for some time. We're experiencing a slow crash towards an eventual breakdown. Banking should be a public governmental run organization for the purpose of financing productive enterprise. As it is now, its a drain on our economy.

Spending one hour of time to understand the underpinnings of how we have reached this situation is a means of realizing, there IS another way.
