
Subject: Re: Aren't We Too Tolerant of the British?
Posted by Becky on Thu, 09 Oct 2025 16:38:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

candoon wrote on Wed, 21 July 2010 11:43 Right now to me and this gets worse as each year is tacked on with age, I think we are too tolerant of many things. Do not get me wrong, I grew up hearing we were the melting pot for years, I have no issues with anyone unless they are idiots, I do not have patience for idiots, but right now we are too tolerant of many things and its just getting worse. Just in the past 20 years think of how many things have changed that makes us feel like we are walked over on, how many times do I need to call and pay a random bill and be told to push one for English.....wth.

I agreed with you that we are too tolerant of many things. The way things have been and it's going is getting worse each day. We are just walked over and I think there's nothing we can do about them.
