When it comes to getting speakers, I like going for those underrated brands that deliver much better than what they cost. Also, I can't pinpoint what I don't like about my current setup right now as they have been doing perfectly fine.

I am talking about the likes of KEF brands and Wharfedale. For example, I make use of the KEF LS50 Meta speakers in my bedroom. Not those big-sized speakers, but the bass is unbelievable when we compare what such speakers offer.

I spent around 800 dollars when I purchased the pair of Wharfedale Diamond 12.3 floorstanders that I use in my sitting room. This pair of speakers is highly recommended for those young guys like me who are still trying to find their feet in life and don't want to spend heavily on getting quality because this right here is affordable and still delivers value. The last on the list is the Polk Audio Atrium 4 Outdoor speakers that I use in the bathroom. Sleek, waterproof, and gives clear sounds that make being in the bathroom fun.
