When it comes to cleaning my musical equipments especially my Fender tube amps, I am always extra careful because of the heat and considering the fact that it's been in use for a long time. Cleaning those type of musical tools happens every 4 months because I don't like them developing any fault.

Also, I ensure that I keep musical instruments in a place that is not dusty or humid.

The tips that I have for newbies that wants to know how to clean their musical instruments are to ensure that they unplug the musical instruments first from the power source, and to avoid using cheap cleaners that might end up destroying the plastic components.

Again, I make use of soft brushes for cleaning jacks, and it has been working super fine for me. Lastly, I
