

---

Subject: Re: Tube amps on PC.
Posted by gofar99 on Thu, 23 Apr 2026 14:53:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Thanks for the good words. I have been off line for a while (see Tower for the reason) Those amps are some of the ones I like best. Great sound and really nice looking. They play louder than they would seem and work well with nearly any source. I occasionally swap them into my main system to feed the Martin Logan ESLs (spl about 90 db/w). As long as the source is modest in level they are really sweet. The design is quite similar to the Poddwatts, particularly the Dual Mono version so if you own one of them you will know what I mean. Super on high sensitivity speakers (vintage Altec, Klipsch etc)

---