I for one will never use a SS amplifier (or preamplifier). It is all tube for me except for the dac. There are just inherent problems with SS that cannot be solved.

Tubes designs are a completely different story. I have described some of the inherent problems with SS in another string called "Solid State vs Vacuum Amps", in this Tube subforum.

I finished up my phono stage (except somewhat haywire look) and I do find some LPs superior but costly, to high rez ss dacs).

Cheers
