I'm starting to get excited now. Gathering the equipment and supplies today and tomorrow, going through my checklist, it's always the beginning of the week right before an LSAF when things get cool. Well, not cool, actually kind of edgy. Gotta check the list twice, make sure to get spare tubes and stuff, just make sure not to forget anything.

This is the 19th year of the Lone Star Audiofest, after the first two years in Tulsa where we called this event the Great Plains Audiofest. In some sense, they're different animals but in most respects, it's the same core bunch from GPAF in 2005 and 2006 that gathered together in Dallas starting in 2007 to form the Lone Star Audiofest.

And now - last two years - we started meeting in Austin. And we're working together with the T.H.E. folks too. This is the second installment of that. Super groovy cool!

Can't wait to see you all this weekend!
