Hi, since I half own half of the company...I didn't pay anything for them. The amps in the photo were ruggedized models we used at demonstrations. Electrically they are the same as the kits. The kits at that time were around $700 less tubes. Unfortunately that even though the company still exists it is hibernating. COVID did a number on our suppliers and fabricators. To continue now the prices would have to be around double. Diy is still viable and I am happy to provide assistance with anyone who does that. (gofar99@hotmail.com)i
