The movie's kind of so-so; a lot of startle moments in the best in-the-balcony-with-your-girlfriend tradition.But the really good parts are the "bonus features". A more self-deluded crew you've never seen outside of audio cable reviewers. Really, they're just precious.

I was waiting for that movie to come out, wanting to see it because they talked about it on Coast to Coast. But when it came out, several people told me it was a dud, so I waited until it came out on DVD. Still haven't done it yet, but I think I'll grab a copy. Sometimes, botched horror films double nicely as a comedies, like "Night of the Living Dead" remakes. The zombies saying "brains, brains" are always good for a chuckle.
