Finally. After more than two years since I started building it I finished my 5.1 system.The amps shown are Bottlehead Paramour IIs with Magnequest iron.The system has Pi Pro four speakers with JBL pro woofers and JBL compression drivers. The processor is an Outlaw 990. Subwoofer is a Revel B15. Sony first gen Bluray player and a Sony Bravia 46" LCD display. I've posted pics before of the speakers.I may be very ideatic but I've alway thoughts that for good multichannel all five speakers and five amps should be identical.I eventually may try multichannel audio but for now this is for movies.

That's truly awesome. I have a Denon 3800 Blu-Ray player and Audio Note Kit 2 driving my four surrounds, so I'm interested in hearing your comments on the sound.
