Subject: Informal poll
Posted by Manualblock on Mon, 15 Aug 2005 12:32:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

How many of you believe that the United States is at war with Iraq because Saddam Hussein and the Iraqi army attacked America?How many people believe that the Irqi people love the American Occupation and hope that we continue to occupy their country?Be honest.

Subject: Nobody I know - honest (nt)
Posted by wunhuanglo on Mon, 15 Aug 2005 23:24:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

(nt)

Subject: Re: Nobody I know - honest (nt)
Posted by Manualblock on Tue, 16 Aug 2005 00:11:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Watching the CNN tonight theyclaim one of the administrations spokesman said and I swear CNN said this; they are not 100% committed to a full democracy in Iraq at this point. They just want stability. Any irony in this? Soon they will ask if Saddam would mind doing a short stint as interim prime minister.

Subject: Re: Nobody I know - honest (nt)
Posted by wunhuanglo on Tue, 16 Aug 2005 03:58:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't know whether to laugh or cry. My son turns 18 next spring and I keep feeling a draft.

Subject: Re: Nobody I know - honest (nt)
Posted by Manualblock on Tue, 16 Aug 2005 04:57:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't think they will get away with the type of ridiculous travesty the draft was back in the day. All the rich and famous (like George) getting passes while the poor or unconnected serve. This time around it will be scrutinised more heavily and; at least I would hope so, be more universally applied. I guess the Democrats will be stuck with implementing it since by then it will be so obvious the Republicans screwed up so bad in the Mideast that we will end up with a Democratic leader.
