Subject: Gas Prices Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 02 Sep 2005 09:23:55 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What's the price of 87 octane gasoline where you live?In Tulsa, it's $3.19 a gallon. I know some places are a buck or more higher, but I also know I can go 25-50 miles in any direction and find gas from 25ϕ to 75ϕ cheaper. So the range of prices in this part of the country is fairly wide.

Subject: Re: Gas Prices - Cinci Posted by colinhester on Fri, 02 Sep 2005 10:38:35 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

We're ranging from $3.09 to $3.39 for regular. $4.00 by this weekend fully expected.....Colin

Subject: Re: Gas Prices Posted by Martin on Fri, 02 Sep 2005 15:00:20 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Here in Clifton Park NY (between Albany and Saratoga) the price early in the week was 2.65 9/10.Over night it went to 2.79 9/10. Then the next day it was a low of 2.89 9/10 to a high of 3.11 9/10. I know that at the gas stations I saw these prices they don't get a delivery every day so something tells me they are ripping people off. I am sorry, but I do not believe the cost of the gas, already refined and being delivered, is rising 20 cents a day by just existing. Late last week in New Hampshire and vermont it was between 2.49 9/10 and 2.59 9/10 where the tax is lower.Martin

Page 1 of 1 ---- Generated from AudioRoundTable.com