Subject: Has Anyone Seen Peckinpah's "Major Dundee"?
Posted by elektratig on Tue, 20 Sep 2005 13:43:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Scanning newly-released DVDs, I came across a 1965 movie by Sam Peckinpah called "Major Dundee", a western set during the Civil War. I've never heard of it but I'm intrigued -- "The Wild Bunch" is one of my all-time favorites, as is "The Good, The Bad and The Ugly", another Civil-War era western. Has anyone seen it? Any thoughts?The Metacritic page on the movie is linked below.
Metacritic on "Major Dundee"

Subject: Re: Has Anyone Seen Peckinpah's "Major Dundee"?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 20 Sep 2005 16:48:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think I saw part of this recently on AMC. I saw a listing for "Dundee" that wasn't "Crocodile Dundee", and so I think it might have been "Major Dundee". I missed most of it, but the name stuck with me.