

---

Subject: Huge March in Manhattan

Posted by Manualblock on Sun, 30 Apr 2006 12:03:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

People were lined up on Broadway for twelve blocks packed in like sardines. If you know Broadway that is one hell of a lot of people. At the very least 50k. Anyone see this on the news? Not much because it was an anti-war march. American citizens exercising their right to speak. Lots of immigration march photos though; all over the news. So much for a free and open press. The administration doesn't want anti-war marches publicised; so they don't get publicised. No liberal news bias here; just us good citizens doing what we are told. Like sheep. Oh; not too many Latino's there. That's tomorrow; sure it will be all over the news; Bush wants guest workers so we will see march's covered by the news up the wazoo. Singing our National Anthem in Spanish with a samba beat. "I want to live in Amerreeca;"

---

Subject: Re: Huge March in Manhattan

Posted by Damir on Sun, 30 Apr 2006 13:47:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Pics, or it didn't happen`.

<http://www.plyrics.com/lyrics/clash/imsoboredwiththeusa.html>

---

Subject: Re: Huge March in Manhattan

Posted by Manualblock on Sun, 30 Apr 2006 15:17:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There are a couple small articles; one had a good perspective looking down Broadway where you can see how many people were there; they usually look across Broadway to make it look smaller. But considering any March having more than 20k people should be news in a reasonable sense; then there was almost no coverage. Tomorrow the Latinos march; let's see how much news coverage they get. If they do not get massive amounts of news airtime; I will eat my hat on camera. And if they do get all the coverage; while the peace marchers get none; I will consider that all those who like to shout about how liberal the media is are full of crap out loud. The news is subject to the mandate from the white house; they print what the administration tells them to print.