Got today off. 1st one in two weeks. Honeydo list a mile long. I'll be back this evening and we can discuss Keynesian theory.

That sounds good to me; but please let me ask; why the big to-do about public debt when you know the deficit is the real issue? I'm a little confused at that. There has always and will always be public debt. We both know that. It's impact on taxes and spending is a given it's not political. So why all the talk about politics?
