Subject: No Personal Info
Posted by Manualblock on Wed, 31 May 2006 12:50:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The EU courts have prevented the authorities from acquiring personal data from airline passengers. We are alone in this sham fight against terrorism. The cooler heads across the Atlantic are digging their heels in against the rampant totalitarianism of the bush. At a barbecue on Monday one of the 9/11 women who lost her husband said she can't believe this crap about security and she thinks they should have had Osama by now. The Europeans lost people in 9/11 also, but they behaved responsibly.It's a shame and a sham.