Every poll records over 70% of the electorate want this stopped and the bush just keeps ignoring everyone and talking about nonsense like gay marriage to divert the rubes.

...that there`re no one on this forum (including a few of us from another countries), who wouldn`t vote for Bush after all your political efforts here...

So? They already proved that twice; I know I am not being heard here; I speak to the deaf. The only people in my experience who consistently vote against their own interests. It's really a carnivale; "Step Right UP!"They confuse them with difficult arguments about Gays and Creationism and Taxes so they vote their way. No one ever went broke underestimating the brains of the middle-class voter. They'll vote a huge tax increase for the wealthy because they get a one time 300$ bonus; but pay forever. Now thats real bright.I only post out of sheer amazement at the foolishness. I used to hope I could gain some understanding of why they do this; but that never happened. No explanation ever appeared.
