You know bush lost the popular vote in our election in 2000. He was appointed by the courts in Florida where his brother is the governor; like in Mexico's recent stolen election.I hope this is not the only forum on which you ever read about politics in America. This is a very reactionary/ radical group compared to most Americans. Not all of us are gun totin', law hatin', cigarrette smokin', envireonmentally irresponsible, hardcore right wing religous fanatics; with no respect or understanding of our nations history or philosophy.Most of us just want a fair shake. And to treat our brothers with respect and save some of the wealth for a greater percentage of the people than the 1% that holds most of it now. So we will have something to pass down to our children. Including the land minus the chemical and envireonmental damage that the corporations inflict on it then abandon it with the blessings of the bush.
