Subject: HELP!
Posted by FredT on Thu, 01 Feb 2007 12:53:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When I booted the computer this morning I was offered the option of updating Windows Internet Explorer, which I did. Now I have two problems:1) There is no button for "read mail" and I have no idea how to get to my mail.2) When I click on a favorite, my Spysweeper software notifies me the favorite in new and askes me whether to keep it. When I respond that I want to keep it, the favorite becomes inactive.This sucks! Can somebody help me?

Subject: Never Mind
Posted by FredT on Thu, 01 Feb 2007 13:05:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I figured it out. I go into a rage when somebody messes with my internet choices:)

Subject: Windows Features
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 02 Feb 2007 04:10:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ah, yes. Microsoft "helped" you by "updating" your computer. All the UNIX guys I know love to poke fun, harping on those Windows "features".

Subject: Windows RG
Posted by Shane on Fri, 02 Feb 2007 13:21:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I really like this version!On another note I hate XP! Our inexpensive laptop has it and I have to reformat the HD and reinstall the OS about 4-5 times a year. I try to keep everything in the background to a minimum, but it doesn't seem to help. I think I'll get a Mac next time. I'd really like to try Linux as well, but don't want to lose all the info I've got, so it'll have to wait for a new puter so I can try it on the the old one.
WIndows RG

Subject: Re: Windows RG
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sat, 03 Feb 2007 04:08:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Melissa's laptop computer just took a dirtnap 'cause Windows locked up. Still under warranty, but it's a pain. So she's suffering from withdrawl, due to the infamous blue screen of death.