Subject: My first Holiday shopping experience of the Season
Posted by colinhester on Sun, 21 Nov 2004 01:23:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Just curious: Where do stores find so many incompetent, dumbass, stupid, ignorant, useless, lazy pieces of shit hired help?God, I wish I were Dennis Miller. My rant seems so crude, but yet strangely very satisfying.....Colin

Subject: Re: My first Holiday shopping experience of the Season
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 21 Nov 2004 07:10:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry to laugh at your misfortune, especially since we're all destined for the same fate over the next four weeks. But your strangely satisfying Dennis Miller rant just hit me squarely in the funny bone.

Subject: Re: My first Holiday shopping experience of the Season
Posted by GraemeG on Sun, 21 Nov 2004 07:34:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Present day society seems to be very efficient at churning them out.....

Subject: Re: My first Holiday shopping experience of the Season
Posted by wunhuanglo on Sun, 21 Nov 2004 15:54:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Because almost everything in the US is bought or sold on price, not quality or service. That's why Walmart rules - quality is an insignificant consideration to most buyers.If you're going to sell cheap stuff cheaply, you need cheap help. And with help, as with everything else, you get what you pay for.People selling quality goods at premium prices generally can't afford to be represented by morons.