1800 dead, 15,000 crippled for life and uncounted tens of thousands of civies blown up or shot down and this is what we have to show for it.Thanks, George. Looks like there'll be at least two countries completely down the shitter by the time you're out of there.
Democracy? Naw, Sharia!

So what did we think? The Iraqi's will live the way they always have and we will own/run and guard the oil for OPEC.Who do they think is volunteering for this Iraqi security force? The old Saddam boys. Yep they'll be jailing dissidents in no time. Where's my old torture stuff; honey, did you put it in the closet?

You guys always point to some negative stuff, and always looking at the "dark side"...No one pointed out that price of the oil in the last two years doubled, from $30 barrel to $60 barrel. This is very positive for various people and their companies...

The argument goes if you don't agree with people making money then buy stock. So I bought a share. However unless you are wealthy and have tax shelters you will pay tax on the share anyway.From "Bongo Eddies Lament", Kid Creole and The Coconuts"Is it true, what they say;The rich all save while the poor must pay;And the imigrated ones;Are treated better than the native sons."
