Subject: John Doe
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 28 Aug 2005 11:25:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There's a common thread that runs through many of our discussions here, and I'd like to tie the ends together, if I can. At least, this is my impression, how I see things today.Everybody that posts here regularly is a pretty stand up guy. We're a bunch of friends, when it all boils down to it. And we're idealists, every one of us.We don't dig on the BS we've seen around us. One of the places we express this is audio. We don't buy the latest fad just 'cause some marketer tells us its hot. We don't much care for reviewers, salesmen or over zealous promoters. We evaluate things for ourselves, thank you very much.Same goes for our beliefs about social structures, religion, politics and things like that.

Subject: Re: John Doe
Posted by Manualblock on Sun, 28 Aug 2005 12:03:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wheew Wayne; thats a post and a half. Do you really want a reply?