It was a large one, but today is very little preserved, no historic informations - but "hypothesis" is that this tower is very old, and that its stones are used for building another large castle near it (another time)... Huh, long walk and the night fell, but we had a flashlight...

Nice sunset D-Man. Where's all the snow?? It sure disappeared quickly.No sledging this weekend. We got the snowstorm; the biggest snow storm in over 50 yrs they say, but it's all gone now too. But damn, it's cold! I hate that cold weather now; time to go see my Brother in Florida.

Thanks, but actually I was a half an hour "short". The weather was nice, large rise of temperature in one day (to 17°C !), the sun was shining, and when we finally came to the tower the light dissapeared. Well, never mind...
