Here I am accusing the so-called "Liberal Media" of ignoring the plight of the returning wounded vets from Iraq and lo and behold this mornings paper has a two page spread on the lack of care and attention they are getting. Hopefully this issue will begin to energise and embolden the normally timid and frightened so-called "Liberal Media." and the soldiers will get justice.

Well I'll give the first part; there is not only not a "Liberal Media" there is NO real media. Just cartoon hacks screaming the party line. There was a time when reporters went after stories; they weren't handed them. Cowards. Now they quote "Bloggers", amazing.
