It is not the immigrants that are doing anything illegal. It is our government that knowingly allows them to be employed at illegal tax free wages. It is a nasty little "loophole" that is allowed to continue. It helps big business but hurts everyone else.Russ

It's not legal to be in America unless you are a citizen or you have the proper documentation and register with the Government. Thats a crime to sneak into the country.

Damir; thats a little confusing. Do you mean that we should forgive the illegal aliens?Or does that mean something to do with the movie?The movie is about an aging ex-gunfighter who is trying to build a life farming but he is a miserable farmer and is not successfull. The fundamental point of the movie was that the wild west of gunfighters and heroes was more of a myth and sham than truth. That most of the so-called dead shots were either drunk or lucky; thats why Doc Holiday carried a shotgun. The movie seeks to shed some light on the gritty/grimey/nasty sort of life it was on the Prarrie and the desert and the way that truth is distorted to make events resemble something more heroic and substantial than what really occured.So how does that frame this response?
