Well, one guy with experience said to me that those Russians are more hotter then Slovaksians...Huh, that`s a probably true...one small/one second touch with forearm, and burn about 3cm in diameter (that`s about 1.2" for you "hardcore right wing religious fanatics" ).Of course, it`s all about "Svetlana" vs. "JJ" 300B glass temperature in the same working point...

Looks like Hytron's kiss as well...:) Just think what the Nonex envelopes could do, running near the 300C limit...not what I would want to do for kicks.cheers,Douglas
