I really love to listen to ART Radio while working on something at my computer. It's great background music to listen to while reading and replying to posts too.

Tried to listen but for some reason it doesn't play on my PC. I'm probably doing something wrong.

What does it do? What OS and browser versions are you running?

I've used it on a variety of PC's, with various versions of Windows and browsers. One thing though, you do have to allow Java to run. If that's blocked, then ART Radio won't work.

Just had my first listen. Kate Bush was playing, not a song I had heard before (this woman's work) but I love her anyhow so no matter. I wonder what she is doing now? Good sound and it has made it into my bookmarks. Cheers.

According to her official website the last double album she released was back in 2005 called "Aerial". Nothing else reported on the site since then, makes me think she's still producing new material but waiting until it's right to release it.

This is what is playing in my ears now, it's probably too loud but I am liking it! Excellent guitar solo, though not long enough.

Collective Soul - Listen [4:14] - Disciplined Breakdown

I found this forum after someone recommended ART radio. It's a great show. Cheers all.

I want to try ART radio. I'm an internet radio listener too But I cannot seem to let it work. I'm using a Mac. Does it work in a Mac? Maybe I'm just missing something.

The ART Radio link launches a Java applet that opens a small player window that shows the playlist. I have used it with Internet Explorer on Windows and Mozilla on Ubuntu Linux but not on a Mac. Your browser is Safari, isn't it? Can it run Java applets? Do you have to turn on Java to do so?

In any case, you can listen to ART Radio without the client player. AudioRoundTable.com pays Live365 to host our streaming audio, and to pass our licensing and royalty fees for the music content on to ASCAP and EMI. You can access the ART Radio stream there, at the link below.

This apparently isn't compatible with my system for some reason. I keep getting some kind of Windows verification screen. Does anyone know how to bypass this?.

Have you tried the main "ART Radio" link (up by the "Posting Rules" and "Get a T-Shirt" links)?
