I know I've been worse than usual about returning phone calls but I just hate that little electronic turd and wish we could get together...

Right now my health is the best in a year. I'm walking in the woods several times a week and have only had to be rescued once

I'm religously saving for my motorcycle and have upgraded my plans to a more travel friendly type machine like this Sportster 883:

Meantime, I'm enjoying life in my more luxurious, centrally heated and air conditioned digs

The Simple SE is fully broken in and sounds great! Sometimes I think it's more forgiving than the Simple 45 but then I notice some detail or sound I haven't heard before on a familiar recording. That tells me this is a superb design. I'm mostly staying with a 50's Telefunken AT7 driver and EH 6CA7 powers. The latter were great in the Ella and really shine here.

I really have to get the 4Pis off the ground and Waynes pic from LSAF of his stands has inspired me to get busy.

Jessica, 14 months, is walking! Started a few days ago, she won't sit down! Eddy the Dog is going to have a breakdown, she chases him everywhere he goes.

Thoreau-esque medicine is a cure-all. Long distance walking is one of the best brain stimulants, too.

Would you name the faces in the photo, please? I see the gentleman standing in front of the 1000ft high blast-horn has been prescribed an anesthetic beer...

Man, that's awesome, Bill. I think about you all the time. I'd love to ride with you when you're ready!

Hi Bill,

I am glad to hear that you are getting better, moving forward with your recovery. I hope you can get your situation under control where life is normal again.

A complete recovery would be great so you can travel. I bet all of your buddies in Ohio, and Tulsa, Collen-Ronald-Steve, would be thrilled to see you when you ride up on your new motorcycle.

Keep up the good fight! You will be riding your new bike and on the road before you know it.

Norris

Hey Bill!

Glad to hear you are doing better.

What a group "mug-shot" pic you posted. Mothers everywhere are telling their children to stay away from those funny looking audiophile people! LOL !!!

I'll have to take a trip down to see you before the weather gets bad this fall.
