The original stickers are still on the back of mine. There is one that indicates specific part numbers for each piece (ie: 8-track, cassette deck, etc.)

I'll check if there is any other information and let you know.

I had one of these stereo's back in the early 80's. I thought it was cool back then but looking at it today, not so much. I don't know of anywhere that you can find parts for this or one that is used to buy for parts.

That is some ancient looking equipment. I was amazed to see something like that still around, especially with an 8-track player. Hope you can find the information you need.
