One of my all time favorite movies has to be Forrest Gump. Of course, I love any movie that Tom Hanks stars in, but I also love the great music from the sixties and seventies that is played in this movie. Does anyone else like it too?

Run Forrest Run.... I thought it was pretty good too. I'm a fan of Tom Hanks too. I loved him in Big and Philadelphia.

This is not my favorite Tom Hanks movie but it is good.

I can relate to the movie because my youngest brother has somewhat the same condition as Forrest Gump. He can understand most things but can't really comprehend what they are all about.

I wish Tom Hanks will make more movies such as this. It really uplifts other people to continue dreaming despite of the conditions that they are having.

It really a romantic and touching movie, and funny as well. Forrest Gump is the only movie that made me cry during watching it. I love the scenes when Jenny left Forrest and he express his feeling by running around the world.

I think my favorite character in this movie wasn't Forrest but it was Lieutenant Dan! I loved the relationship that Forrest and he had. I thought the funnies part was when his principal came to his house to see his mother and the principal and his mother ended up having sex while Forrest listened on the steps. When the principal came out and talked to Forrest he looked at the principal and started moaning. LOL!

Tom Hanks is one of the most popular actor for me. My mom is a huge fan of him too. I've watched almost 15 movies of Tom Hanks starting from his 2002 movie entitled My Bodyguard. In the movie, Forrest Gump, I give Tom Hanks a round of applause. I like his performance in this movie. The role best fits for him.

I've always thought Forrest Gump was a terrific movie with a great soundtrack. Interesting way to take a look at U.S. history, too. I really like how historical footage was interwoven throughout the movie like the scene where it looks like Forrest is showing President Johnson the wound on his butt.

I love the movie Forrest Gump too. My favorite part of the movie was when the coach said, "He has got to be the dumbest son-of-a-bitch alive, but he sure is fast." Not sure if I got it word for word, but it was funny.

I also enjoyed the historical footage that was inserted into this movie. This wasn't my favorite Tom Hank's movie but it was definitely the most unique of his movies.

This movie made a huge impact on me that I remember how I felt back in the day when I was in the movie theatre watching it! It has life lessons that everyone can relate to. Simply one of the classics!

The soundtrack is, for me, the best part of forrest Gump. You can tell what era he is in by the music they are playing. That goes along with the historical clips, as mentioned earlier, and it is fun to see how they worked the clips into the movie.

This was originally a book. The book is mediocre at best.

HOWEVER, after the success of the movie, there were two sequels released based on the movie's version of the characters ather than the original book. I've read the second one and it works. Highly recommended.

Ignore the first book and get the movie and the sequel books.

I'm just surprised at how people that loved the movie are not willing to read the sequel, even though planned, it seems the script isn't going to happen anytime soon.

I enjoy watching Gump whenever the mood strikes. I think the naivety of his character is what I like the best. Wish I could go thru life in that manner.

My favorite Hank's movie is Apollo 13, though. I've seen it at least 100 times. I'm a big space fan.

I love Forrest Gump too, both for the story and for the truly excellent soundtrack. I love just about every song on there.

Apollo 13 was a great film too.

I did see that this was on TV last night. I watched a few minutes of it, but switched it. I've seen it enough times and didn't feel like looking at it again. It's ok and all that, but just seen it enough...
