Subject: GPS units
Posted by DaBase on Sat, 29 May 2010 22:11:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm planning on going on a trip this summer and I'm looking for a GPS unit so I don't get lost. What units are the best for a person who is on a budget?

Subject: Re: GPS units
Posted by Mavare on Sat, 29 May 2010 22:42:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It really depends upon what you want. The Garmin nüvi 760 is the best selling system but I don't know if that means it's the best for you. The next two in line are the Magellan RoadMate 1200 and the TomTom One XL-S according to Squidoo.

Subject: Re: GPS units
Posted by DaBase on Tue, 01 Jun 2010 14:29:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the info. I was looking at the Magellan but just wasn't sure how good it was. It's good to know that it's in the top three.

Subject: Re: GPS units
Posted by TLC123 on Wed, 02 Jun 2010 02:25:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have the Magellan GPS. It works great! I have never had any problems with it and have always had great directions. I would suggest this brand to anybody.

Subject: Re: GPS units
Posted by musiclover on Tue, 08 Jun 2010 09:15:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It really depends on what you are looking for and the functionality that you require. Different price classes have different 'best' options to choose from. I would recommend TomTom though. It has a very easy user interface.