I have no idea what it was that I caught in a store the other day but it looked like 1 center speaker and a sub, thats it and it was advertised to be all a person needs. Has anyone seen something like this before?

That sounds really funky and I have never seen a speaker system like that before. I would not see why you would buy such a thing if you could buy a 2.1 or something better. Maybe it is a portable version?

Honestly I totally forgot about this, maybe I should put subscriptions on? There are only a few places I visit so next time I will take the new phone with me (with cam) and snag a pic. If I can get some time later today I will poke around on the sites I visit too, just in case its online.

It looks a lot like something I saw Bose trying to sell. I would say avoid this kind of gimmick. This kind of stuff is for interior designers and not audiophiles.
