I was sort of expecting something about Ponce de León and a group of explorers but this movie is mostly surreal imagery about a man trying to save his wife from cancer. It kind of reminded me of "What Dreams May Come."

That's a funny message, isn't it?!! That's what you see if a file is gone, like if a duplicate post is deleted or something. One of the posts I made was on the same machine you used. I forgot to enter my name, so it automatically used your name. Later I re-posted with my name and removed the one made with your name. You're probably trying to see that original post, but it's gone. That places you at the end of the internet.
