Is your room small? If so, that will be a fine little system for you that will sound nice with jazz and acoustic recordings.

thank you for ur comments, like u said, if in the future i change my room to a bigger one so this system cannot produce good music then. is it because of the speaker? Also another option i found out today is BAT integrated (Valve) or audionet sam V2, so what u think it suit best for Nautilus 805, or krell kav 400

The 805 is fine in a small room but you'll want different speaks if your room is large. It images well but gets washed out in big rooms.

unfortunately my 805 cannot be replaced because of the budget now.so krell kav400 may suit best? because it deliver top power compare to audionet sam v2 and BAT vk 300x. Is it a good decision get krell to drive 805, or my other 2 amp options works better?
