

---

Subject: Remixing Music

Posted by Lancelot on Thu, 15 Jul 2010 07:31:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

What software would you recommend for remixing music files. Do I need a good speaker when I want to remix music? Or will a normal desktop speaker do the job?

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

Posted by JiminyCricket on Wed, 21 Jul 2010 09:12:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi there, what do you plan to do with the remixes? I mean is it for your MP3, to replace turntables or just for your own listening pleasure? Lots of free trial software available if you look around the web.

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

Posted by candoon on Wed, 21 Jul 2010 16:39:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I know a few friends that do random remixes for when we are raiding (gaming online) and its broadcasting through our team speak or vent server. Kind of interesting and I would love to know how to do it myself but I am not that technical, at least with music that is.

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

Posted by Lancelot on Thu, 22 Jul 2010 01:49:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Just for my listening pleasure. I don't have a turntable so I would like to use MP3 if possible. Can you give me a good name for the software in which I could start practicing?

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

Posted by JiminyCricket on Fri, 23 Jul 2010 09:31:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Candoon, maybe your friends can teach you? I don't do this myself but you could try this <http://http://www.softpedia.com/get/Multimedia/Audio/Audio-Mixers-Synthesizers/MP3-Remix.shtm> I link. It claims the demo is free and the full product seems reasonably priced. As always you should take care if a demo site wants your credit card details ahead of buying the product itself

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

---

Posted by Lancelot on Mon, 26 Jul 2010 18:22:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Thanks for that. Your link has two "http" though.

I'm don't give out my credit card so easily and I use PayPal for my online transactions. Most demos have limited time and I think this is included. Anyway, if I'm satisfied with this program then it is worth buying.

---

---

Subject: Re: Remixing Music

Posted by JiminyCricket on Sat, 31 Jul 2010 10:41:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Oops dunno what happened with the link. I used the button here

I am ultra careful about online things because my Paypal is linked to my credit card. I trust them both but would rather not risk it unless there is something I really want.

Hope you found something good for you.

---