

---

Subject: Revamped classic movies

Posted by Taylor-Sue on Tue, 10 Aug 2010 06:39:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

What do you make of the films which have been 'digitally remastered'? They do it to music too but do you think it's an improvement on the original in either field?

---

---

Subject: Re: Revamped classic movies

Posted by BigMacAndCheese on Thu, 12 Aug 2010 10:36:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I prefer things to be in their original state. If you play an old LP then the crackle is part of the experience. If I watch an old movie I want it to be in black and white, as it was meant to be seen. I am the same with food. I hate when they mess with something and change it into some hybrid form.

---

---

Subject: Re: Revamped classic movies

Posted by soundman on Tue, 17 Aug 2010 06:22:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I find that movies aren't revamped just to make more money, just the fact they don't stand up to modern broadcast standards as they would become unwatchable if they weren't remastered.

---

---

Subject: Re: Revamped classic movies

Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 17 Aug 2010 16:56:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I can understand wanting the original, but I prefer having them cleaned up a bit. I guess it doesn't hurt to have both forms available.

---