

---

Subject: Digital vs Analog

Posted by Songs4Life on Tue, 10 Aug 2010 23:59:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Personally, I prefer the old-fashioned radios with knobs and dials. What about you?

---

---

Subject: Re: Digital vs Analog

Posted by Adveser on Wed, 11 Aug 2010 04:16:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I just hate digital controls for things that should be analogue, like tone and balance controls. You can't get the fine tuning you need with digital.

---

---

Subject: Re: Digital vs Analog

Posted by Songs4Life on Wed, 11 Aug 2010 04:30:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

That's right. Digital doesn't feel right. Maybe because it's not manual. If I remember rightly, even with cameras, digital is still a long way from catching up with analog.

I was talking to a friend the other day. His routine work was setting up sound systems for singers. He told me that he preferred the old-fashioned valve amplifiers anytime.

---