Subject: Sound's highest achievement

Posted by Bohnam on Thu, 14 Oct 2010 11:26:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Would you agree with the theory that music is sound's highest achievement? It is, after all, a wonderfully varied mixture of patterned vibrations sent into the air by all kinds of instruments, from a cricket's hind legs to a massive pipe organ.

But do you think that music is the best that sound can do?

Subject: Re: Sound's highest achievement

Posted by Adveser on Thu, 14 Oct 2010 17:15:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes. More so than language even.

Subject: Re: Sound's highest achievement

Posted by Wolfgang on Thu, 14 Oct 2010 20:46:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Definitely yes! There couldn't be anything more useful a sound can do than music. In one way or another we all get inspired by music whatever form it is.

Subject: Re: Sound's highest achievement

Posted by audioaudio90 on Tue, 19 Oct 2010 16:21:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hmmm, I don't think you are going to get much of a debate here. I would definitely agree that music is sound's highest achievement. To PP who said music is a higher achievement than language, well I would say that music IS language!