You can't talk about audio without bringing up those guys. Back in their hey day we all know that sonically, Floyd was ahead of their time. But even to this day, 30 years later, can you think of anyone who is on their level?

I gotta be honest. I listen to a ton of prog and hard rock an they never did anything for me. I am amazed at how overrated they are.

I will always remember them for 'There is a House in New Orleans' which is a rock classic. Now that you have reminded me, I will have to get the MP3 version of that hit and add it to my collection.

Pink Floyd were certainly the most experimental in their day - they had fun jamming together in the real spirit of experimentation. My favourite Floyd album has to be "Ummagumma" (live) - what's yours ?
