Subject: horn for 2 inch driver

Hi Wayne,

I have a friend that has a pair of 2" compression drivers that he is not using. He will let me borrow then. But I need a horn. Do you know of any 2 inch horns that would be good for hi end home use? Maybe something that is smoothly curved from throat to mouth, and is currently available?

Thanks,
Tom

There are a bunch of good horns for 2" drivers. But to tell the truth, since I don't use any of them in my designs, I can't give you a specific recommendation. I personally prefer constant directivity horns but I stay away from horns with sharp edges in them. Some horns use diffraction edges to help set the pattern, but that tends to make them sound spitty.
