I know that there may not be many people here who can make it to France - but if you are passionate about collecting old valve radios etc try to visit next May !

This is where I get loads of stuff - here's the poster -

Thanks for the information. It may well be a long journey for a lot of people here but if you are passionate about the subject then what a great excuse to see something of Europe at the same time. Do you know if they have any English posters or website?
