Does anyone know where I can get diagrams of how to set up speakers for the best acoustics for different types of rooms? I'm trying to explain to my friend that it's different depending on how the room is set up, and a visual would be very helpful!

Thank you, Adveser! You always seem to have the answer right on hand. That site is a lot more informative than I had hoped for, as well.

You're welcome. I love their tone generator. It's good to test hearing with since it's stereo.
