Which do you prefer when watching a new movie, viewing it at home or inside the theater? My left ears have hearing problems and it hurts when exposed to loud sounds so I prefer watching movies at home as I can control the volume.

I like movies at home for two main reasons: first, I like to stretch out on the sofa (hard to do in a theater), and second, I'm a bit cheap and a bit lazy. I use NetFlix and let them send me movies so I don't even have to drive out to pick them up!

Sometimes I lie on the couch while watching a movie and that is one of the reasons why I like watching at home. But how I wish I can have the same room with the same big screen as the movie theaters.

I really enjoy being able to watch them in the theater but that really drains the bank account pretty fast, so I'm moving towards just watching them when they come out on TV or getting them at Blockbuster etc. Watching at home can be just as fun

I watch a movie in the theater if I'm really excited to see that movie. If not then I would just wait for its DVD release and rent it.
