I am still not decided as to which one to buy. Has anybody purchased the Galaxy? How is the audio in it? I have purchased a lot of stuff from iTunes will I be able to transfer it to the Galaxy if I decide to go for it?

I actually have the Galaxy and it's amazing for music. I bought some extra memory and I literally have all of my music on it. I have about 2,300 songs. Galaxy is a great way to save some cash

I have a lot more music than that, and a lot of it from iTunes. Would I be able to use it in the Galaxy? Or is there a way to change the format so I can transport all my music to Galaxy?

Who made the galaxy? I have not heard of it yet but I have heard of the iPad. I'm not 100% sold on the iPad yet either, it's just too new and I'm sure there will be bugs to work out.

I would love to hear more about the Galaxy though.

I just saw a commercial for the Galaxy this evening, which was the first I had seen for it. It is made by Samsung, so that was a positive for me. I am going to do some comparisons. Does anyone know how the Galaxy compares to the Ipad dollar-wise?

Personally, I'd wait for maybe a year before I buy a tablet. It's new and a lot of problems will surely surface (like the issue with the iPad nanos snapping into half when they were first released). The most obvious problem with the iPad is that it doesn't have built in USB ports.

The Galaxy I think is more expensive but it's a bit smaller than the iPad. I've read the reviews and they say it's pretty good.

I also heard HP is coming out with one and Toshiba too. Maybe you can wait for them to come out and watch the price drop before getting one?
