I keep hearing about all these free codes for Netflix, but I've yet to see one. Has anyone got any free codes that they want to share.

Is that legal? Sharing the free codes? It would make renting movies much cheaper!

Hey if you sign up online with Redbox and then you let them text you, you will get a free code each Monday to use. You can also google free codes and try them out.

Of course it is legal, but I don't think it is the right thing to do. Redbox mining info for third parties is not the right thing to do either.

I don't know of any free Netflix codes, but I am sure that now that I see their boxes out, there will be some. I have seen the codes for Redbox, but never paid much attention to them. Next time I see them, I will make note of the site and post it. I actually just order my movies from Comcast when I have time to watch.
