Subject: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by bengee on Sun, 06 Mar 2011 04:21:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sadly, it's not one of the older ones that we all know and love, but it's decent. It's a Crosley Digital Jukebox, one of the standard ones and a little smaller than the boxes they are based off of. It's really sweet though, and is able to store thousands of songs. It even has a radio!

I'm still not sure where exactly to put the thing but it'll definitely make for some entertaining hours of music

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by woofer on Sun, 06 Mar 2011 18:10:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Congratulations! I've been wanting to find an older jukebox, preferably from the 50s, for a corner of my game room. It would be nice to have a working model, but honestly, I want it just because it would look awesome in the room. The hard part will be finding one, of course.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by bengee on Mon, 07 Mar 2011 01:04:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, I know the feeling. The only place I can figure to find an old jukebox would possibly be at an antique store or at a garage sale. I still haven't had the fortune of actually finding one for sale though. They're quite rare, and I'm not sure how much they'd even go for, especially if it's in working condition.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by Shane on Mon, 07 Mar 2011 04:22:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My Uncle has an old jukebox that was in my Grandfather's drugstore when my Uncle was a little kid. Still full of all the old 45's that were in it at the time. It needs all the electronics restored and he's never gotten around to doing it (he's an electronic tech/engineer for the last 30 years). I'm hoping someday it'll be mine.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by GoodVibrations on Thu, 17 Mar 2011 02:18:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Congrats Bengee, that is pretty cool. You guys may not be old enough but does anyone remember the table-top boxes that were at booth tables in cafes? They were like mini-jukeboxes and you could choose from several songs to play at your own table. And that's the way it was before MP3s.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by Clueless on Sat, 26 Mar 2011 17:14:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ever since I saw one of the older jukeboxes at a friend's house, I have been dreaming of one too. I have a couple of boxes of my mom's and dad's 45s, and I haven't gotten rid of them because I still dream of getting that jukebox. I know my parents would flip if I get one.

Congratulations!

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by brian21 on Tue, 12 Apr 2011 03:36:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That's awesome that you got a jukebox, as others have said they are pretty rare. I'd like to get one someday myself, but it's definitely out of my price range right now. I was watching an episode of Pawn Stars on the History channel, and they bought a Seeburg jukebox from the 40's. I can't remember exactly how much it went for, but I believe it was at least a few thousand restored.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by DefAudio on Wed, 13 Apr 2011 21:08:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Congratulations, It must really be cool to be able to get the jukebox going. I would love to have one of the older style ones with a few records, but the possibility of having thousands of songs stored in it sounds pretty persuading.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by Roxie on Thu, 21 Apr 2011 14:39:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Is it everything you ever dreamed of? Did it come with the 45s? Did you figure out where to put it? I am not really sure of the different brands, etc. However, I have great memories of the jukebox at my family's grocery store. Yes, they had a jukebox at the grocery store. My dad used to give me nickels to play my favorite songs.

Subject: Re: Living the Dream - I have a jukebox!
Posted by BluesBrother77 on Sun, 01 May 2011 00:08:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That is so cool! I think a jukebox would be cool to have in the house. I do remember having those table top ones at a restaurant in my hometown. It was pretty cool.