Ok, I've been wondering what the future of radio is, and I have found something I haven't seen before. From Tivoli Audio I found the Networks radio that can play music from the internet, from your computer, mp3 player, and even has an alarm radio. A pricey radio at $300, it sure seems to have a lot to offer. Does anyone have one of these? What do you think? Check it out here: http://www.tivoliaudio.com/networks-global-radio-cherry-gold.html

I like Tivoli Audio. They're the former Kloss / Advent folks, and I think they're class acts that make good products.
