How do you choose to sit in your home theater? In my home theater, I have a bunch of gigantic comfortable armchairs, and in the back, a long couch. My family and friends love it.

My living room is too small for a real theater set up. We have a pretty standard arrangement with a couch facing the TV, and a loveseat and chair perpendicular to the TV. Naturally the couch is used the most.

I was once at someone's house to celebrate their nice new home theater, complete with real cinema seats! I think they got them from some place that was closing down or refurbishing. It's not what I would go for but at least it was authentic.

Wow, Drury, I guess they have a lot more space in their house (and money) than I do. How many seats and rows did they have?

We have a long couch where most of the people in the family love to squeeze. There is also a loveseat which is my favorite spot! A black beanbag chair with a leather-like surface completes the entertainment room seating.
