If ever a movie was made for surround sound, Law Abiding Citizen is it! There is a spot in the middle where an explosion comes out of nowhere and it scared the crap out of us because it came from the back speakers and was unexpected. Have you watched this yet? If not you need to and turn the speakers up!

I loved that movie and I have to agree, the sound effects in that movie were definitely meant for surround sound. I can't imagine watching that without a home theater setup.
