

---

Subject: Napster

Posted by Clueless on Mon, 02 May 2011 21:57:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Whatever happened to Napster? What are people doing now a days to rip off the recording artists? I remember how amazing it was being able to find a song that you heard when you were a kid, and someone had digitized it from an old record.

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by audioaudio90 on Tue, 03 May 2011 15:49:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Napster is still around but now you have to pay for songs. I was on there the other day looking for songs, but many of the versions sounded odd and nothing like what you'd hear on the radio or the CD. Some of them were very tinny.

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by Serena on Thu, 02 Jun 2011 03:44:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I also checked it out for old times sake. It definitely has changed a lot. Nothing like the old days. I rather stick to the things that work best with my MP3.

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by AdrianG on Sat, 19 Nov 2011 09:12:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Clueless wrote on Mon, 02 May 2011 16:57 Whatever happened to Napster? What are people doing now a days to rip off the recording artists? I remember how amazing it was being able to find a song that you heard when you were a kid, and someone had digitized it from an old record.

Have you heard of torrents? I don't know too much about these files, but it seems like they are the main source of downloading free music these days. The last time I downloaded music off the internet was with Limewire, but my wife made me stop doing that because she was afraid I'd get a virus.

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by timron on Fri, 23 Mar 2012 22:43:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well, at first Napster was a free site, then Metallica (along with others) pitched a fit about not profiting from song play and low and behold, Napster became a pay-site. Recently, however,

Napster sold out to Rhapsody, which really upset me, because I liked the design of Napster's website WAY better than Rhapsody's. I also liked how you could download a song through Napster straight to your Itunes, whereas with Rhapsody you have to use THEIR software. Not cool.

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by likearecordingbaby on Tue, 01 May 2012 11:47:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Torrents are still alive and well as far as I know, but you have to be really careful when it comes to that stuff because your ISP can track it in some cases and send you warnings about jail time and such!

---

---

Subject: Re: Napster

Posted by audioaudio90 on Wed, 06 Jun 2012 13:36:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Yes, I don't really use torrents anymore because of concern over legal liability. Limewire was nice while it lasted, but I was getting paranoid even before it was shut down.

---